It is one of the big series that will appear regularly at the Colonial.

For the first half of this week the management of this popular theatre has booked a first class show of five vaudeville acts and feature photoplays. The headline vaudeville number is Edmunds and LaVelle, the Tennessee Magnollas, presenting their own original odity called Black and Tan. Their acts consist of comedy singing, talking and dancing and wherever the tweekly and Wentle and Wentle the tweekly and tional double trapeze act, doing many daring feats in the air. Morrall and Mack are two clever fellows who do a singing and talking skit. Jennie De-Wesse is a clever musical comedienne who is assisted by Cuba, the clever who is assisted by Cuba, the clever canine cutup; keep your eye on him. Harry Coleman completes the vaude-ville in a comedy ventriloquist act that provides fun for both young and old. In the photoplays the feature that will be most looked for is the lith reel of Our Mutual Girl series. In this reel Marraret wants to be In this reel Margaret wants to be-come an actress and she meets Bianche Ring, who is featured in When Claudia Smiles, but her auntie puts a stop to that nonsense; she also takes her friends to the leading millinery stores on Fifth avenue, where all the latest spring styles are shown to ad-vantage. The Squire's Son is the title of a two reel Irish drama produced by the Kay-Bee Co. The Keystone com-edy on this bill is called The Race and

COLONIAL THEATRE. The Adventures of Kathlyn, Enor-

With his finger on the pulse of pub-lic preference, Manager McNulty will offer his patrons today, the first in the great Kaihlyn series entitled The mous Three Reel Selig Feature.

The Three Musketeers, which will be hown at the Auditorium today and emorrow, has just closed a run at the New York theatre, which is only equal-led by the famous Quo Vadis. The Three Musketers closed at the New York theatre on Sunday, April 4th, and today it will be presented in Norwich, which is enough to give the patrons of this popular house an idea of the class of photoplay attractions that are being offered for the present. The breathless pace at which in other days we galloped through the quivering pages of Dumas' tale of strange ad-venture, swash buckling intrigue and ourtly cunning, The Three Mus-eteers has been captured with singu-Muser consistency in the new six part im of this title

The action of the film starts with the departure of D'Artagnan for Pars, after his last lesson in fencing from his father, the best swordsman in crance. Almost from the moment he caves mounted on his old white plough orse, whose appearance led to his rest duel, his adventures begin. Soon as a member of the Musketeers, and atives in New London. it is one of those delightful child comedies with all the Keystone juvenile comedians giving you something worth while laughing at. the great Kathlyn series entitled The Adventures of Kathlyn, being the story of The Unwelcome Throne. Kathlyn is the daughter of Col. Hare, a collector of wild animals, who lives in California. She is a sculptor, and in her open air studio is engaged in studying a leopard. A younger sister, Winnie, enters and startles the animal, and it leaps at the invader. She seeks refuge in a nearby cage and is released from her position with great difficulty. Then follows a series of events that are equally thrilling and mystifying and the entire three reels are crowded with incidents that make juices, thus assisting nature in the prompt digestion and assimilation of the food—your entire system is benefited—you will enjoy good health.

PLAY BALL!

"Play ball!" the umpire cries todas, And o'er the bills and far away The hearts of ninety million fans, High-hoping, earnest partisans, Give back the ecoo, one and all, With thrilling ecstasy, "Play ball!" No. parts of papers now engage Our thoughis except the sporting page. Once more a doling nation reads About its heroes' daily deeds. Now neighbors unto neighbors say, "Ty Cobb was going some today!" Or, "Johnson had Hugh Jennings' band Just meckly eating from his hand." Once more we read almost with awe, Of Mighty Matty and McGraw, Of Speaker Baker, Plank and Wood, And others just as great and good. Of them we read, we dream, we think, And view their pictures done in pink. Each day the duli world they entrane With high adventure and romance. They keep our spirits up to bear The summer's dust and heat and glare, And those who couldn't get away and at the park enjoy the play. May at the scoreboard see the game With pleasure almost just the same. Aiready speculation's rife On who will win the final strife.
